

BETWEEN EARTH & HEAVEN

How do we follow Jesus as we participate in our political process? How is the church of Jesus Christ supposed to respond to the issue of race in America? Is multi-culturalism congruent with the Christian vision of every tribe, tongue and nation being gathered before the throne of God? What does the church have to say, in light of our past, on male and female relationships? How do we respond to people who feel like they are trapped in the wrong body (Gender Dysphoria)? Why does the Bible mostly say no to sex and our culture mostly says yes? What does it look like to have Jesus lead us in our approach to technology?

These are just some of the challenges we are dealing with as we navigate following Jesus in the world today. If we don't begin serious conversations about what God has to say and what faithful responses could look like to these real challenges, we deny one of the great gifts of being the body of Christ. We are not in this alone. The church is called to be a place where we can struggle together, speak honestly, love unconditionally and discern together how to navigate the challenges of this world. In this series, we are going to risk ruffling some feathers so that we can get real about following Jesus between earth and heaven.
